Friday evening, February 5, there will be an apron and necktie social at home of Mrs. Frank Corvieu. Go and take your friends, as Hope Chapel Sunday school is to be benefited.

In these last days, the church is waking up to the recognition that her work and responsibility is not confined merely to the holding of stated religious services and the care of those who come and ask for her ministries of mercy, but that her mission is like that of her Lord to seek and to save the lost. That the place and duty of the church is wherever her presence can bring ease to the suffering, calm to the troubled, peace to the penitent, strength to the tried, guidance to the erring, instruction to the ignorant or in whatsoever way the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ can be brought home to any needy soul to its present help and eternal salvation. For this great work, each of us, in his place and according to his gifts, has his responsibility. —(Rev. Francis Goodwin of Hartford.)

At the North Side, Chicago, the Lincoln park commission, at great expense, are building out into Lake Michigan, making a handsome paved beach. Sea wall, esplanade and drives, to enclose a long, broad body of the lake water. Along the great blue lake is at the city's edge, there is little or no sailing or pleasure boating upon it. It is too wide and treacherous. Therefore these commissioners of the Lincoln park are enclosing, behind their new made land, a water course for sailing and rowing, for racing and for more indolent aquatic sport. The Lake Shore drive, when completed, will be three miles in length and will connect with yet another notable road to Fort Sheridan 35 miles in length. —(Julian Ralph in February Harper's Magazine.)

WESTPORT.

The cold snap, Tuesday, made the ice dealers smile more than at any previous time, this season. It is amusing to hear the wisecracks talk about harvesting the crop.

E. Sterne Wheeler of Saugatuck takes a trip to Honduras as representative of a mining syndicate in New York. His many friends bid him bon voyage and some of them wish they were born to such good luck.

Carl Fininger will give a violin recital at National hall, Thursday, February 4, assisted by Mrs. Elsie Wheeler of Saugatuck, soprano.

No appointments have yet been made by the selectmen, for representatives to go to Washington in aid of our proposed harbor appropriation. Norwalk and Bridgeport delegations have been in Washington and made strong appeals for their harbors. They have done this for years and secured hundreds of thousands of dollars for improvements.

Westport's delay seems to be in the desire of some of the town fathers to get a volunteer committee of about a dozen good looking men to go and pay their own expenses, whose honest faces, without the aid of lawyer or counselor, will so impress the committee that $50,000 will be considered a modest sum for Westport. Yes, Westport will get there, if February 10 doesn't come too soon; but there may be fears regarding the appropriation getting to Westport, this year.

The presentation in last week's Westport of Riverside avenue improvement, by a committee of the board of trade seems to turn some new side lights on the subject and, if the statements are all correct, it would appear to be wisdom for the town to carry out some of the suggestions.

Founder's day will be celebrated, Staples High school, Tuesday, February 2. More than ordinary preparations are being made and the occasion will be one of special interest. Mr. Staples will then have passed his four score and ten and will deliver an address to the school and friends. Prof. Pratt is maintaining the school, in some respects, on a higher plane than ever before and the interest of our citizens in this occasion is steadily growing, while the value and importance of the school to our town is becoming more and more apparent to every thoughtful mind.

Clark Barnum of Danbury has been calling on friends here, this week and looks as if Danbury air agreed with him.

Our selectmen did a wise thing in repairing the wind break on the State street bridge before the blizzard of Tuesday. A nail in time saved more than nine in this case.

STRATFORD.

An application will be made soon for a charter for a horse railroad to Bridgeport over the Air Line road, from the up town green. The East End road will extend their track to the green as soon as the Consolidated road make the proposed changes in Main street crossing. The question arises whether it will be well for the townspeople to permit the building of another road, or content themselves with the accommodations offered by the present. The Air Line road has just been macadamized at great expense and it would seem as if the experience just gone through with, on the town road, would be an object lesson which our townspeople might profit by. When Mr. Lewis gets his road extended to the up town green, it looks as if the greater number of people would be better accommodated by his road than by one over the Air Line. The present road lands its passengers in the center of the city, convenient to depot and steamboat landing and by the most direct route. A new road over the Air Line gets into the center of the town by a quite a roundabout way. Mr. Lewis has shown, so far a disposition to do everything to accommodate the public and one line, well conducted and equipped, with patronage sufficient to keep it so, will certainly be better for the interests of the town than to divide the patronage between two, especially where the patronage is not much more than enough to reasonably well pay one. If it is for our best interests to have two lines, then the proposed application should meet with no opposition. If, on the other hand, one line will meet all our requirements, then let us oppose the granting of a charter for a new one. Attention is called to the matter for the purpose of having the people investigate and be prepared to decide what is best when the question comes up.

Truman Bradley returned to his home, Tuesday night, after his day's work and found his wife lying dead upon the floor. She had made preparations to wash and the tubs were found partially filled with water. The fire had gone out in the stove and the water in the tubs was skimmed over with ice, so that the death of the petronate woman, which was undoubtedly caused by heart disease, must have occurred early in the forenoon. Mrs. Bradley was supposed to be the last of the Golden Hill tribe of Indians. She had for many years been a member of the M. E. church and was respected by all who knew her. The sympathies of the townspeople with the afflicted family. She was about 66 years of age. Funeral services were held, Thursday, in the M. E. church, with interment at Nichols.

William Reilly, a resident of Shanley's Lane, slipped while attempting to board a horse car near Seaview avenue, Tuesday night, about 10 o'clock and the wheels of the car ran over one of his legs above the ankle. He was taken to the hospital and there are some hopes that amputation will not be necessary.

People have been crossing the Housatonic river on the ice at Washington Bridge.

The lecture on Hayti by a native Haytian lady in the Baptist church, Wednesday evening, called together a small audience. It was a fine lecture, well delivered and should have had a full house. If it had been better advertised, so that our people could have known the treat in store, no doubt the house would have been filled.

Thursday, 21st, a large number of sympathizing friends gathered in the Congregational church to pay the last tribute of respect to the memory of John Hilton, a fellow townsman who had resided in our midst for over 20 years and, by his quiet, unobtrusive ways, had gained the respect of all with whom he came in contact. Thursday, 28th, we again gathered to pay the same tribute of respect to his wife, who died on Monday, after a long illness. She was sister of Samuel and Morton Beardsley and had always resided in town. She was a devoted member of Christ church and her mission in life seemed to be the care of her husband and, for several years, had been blind, and attention to her church duties. Besides her brothers, one sister remains to mourn her loss.

Mr. Sands of Bridgeport preached in the M. E. church, Tuesday evening.

There remains but two more of the regular course of lectures, on the 8th of February and 15th.

TRUMBULL.

Lucinda L. Dyer died at her home in Trumbull, Tuesday morning, aged 77 years. For many years, she has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, being confined to the house and much of the time, to the bed. She was the widow of Dr. George Dyer. Funeral from the house, Thursday, at 2, Rev. W. F. White officiating. Interment in Booth's cemetery.

Stephen Parks is on the sick list.

The evening service at the Congregational church, Sunday evening, will be a union consecration meeting of the Trumbull C. E. society and the Daniel's Farm and Chestnut Hill auxiliaries. There will be a roll call of each of these societies and, as far as possible, it is hoped that all will be present and will be prepared to respond. If compelled to be absent, it would be considered a great kindness to send a verse or some communication by a friend. These societies take this method of observing Christian Endeavor day. Services will begin promptly at 7 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Married, at the Congregational parsonage, January 21, by Rev. W. F. White, Rupert T. Crane of Bethel and Miss Cora J. Blackman of Bridgeport. Mr. and Mrs. Crane will make their home in Bethel, where Mr. Crane is employed as an engineer in a hat factory.

About 1 o'clock, Sunday morning, locomotive 57, drawing a train of 16 cars, jumped a frog, a short distance above the Washington street crossing, South Norwalk, throwing it over the track. The locomotive ploughed its way along the track, a distance of 400 feet and across the Marshall street crossing to a switch, which it demolished and came to a standstill. No one was injured.

Mrs. E. Witcher is with her brother, J. Carroll.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford visited Mrs. Sophia Northrop in Newtown, last week.

Gertie Moore is home caring for her father, who is very sick with pneumonia.

Miss M. Bulkley has nearly recovered from her sickness.

Mrs. T. Gilbert and son Clarence Reynolds from Westport attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Burr Curtis, in Bridgeport, Monday.

It is not in extent that Chicago's parks are extraordinary, for, all told, they comprise less than 2000 acres. It is the energy that has given rise to them and the taste and enthusiasm which have been expended upon them that cause our wonder. Sand and swamp were at the bottom of them and, if their surfaces now lie in gentle undulations, it is because the earth that was dug out for the making of ponds has been subsequently applied to forming hills and knolls.—[Julian Ralph.]
